

Henri Lefebvre – on Progressive and Regressive Method – in Rural and City Comparatives

By Henri Lefebvre

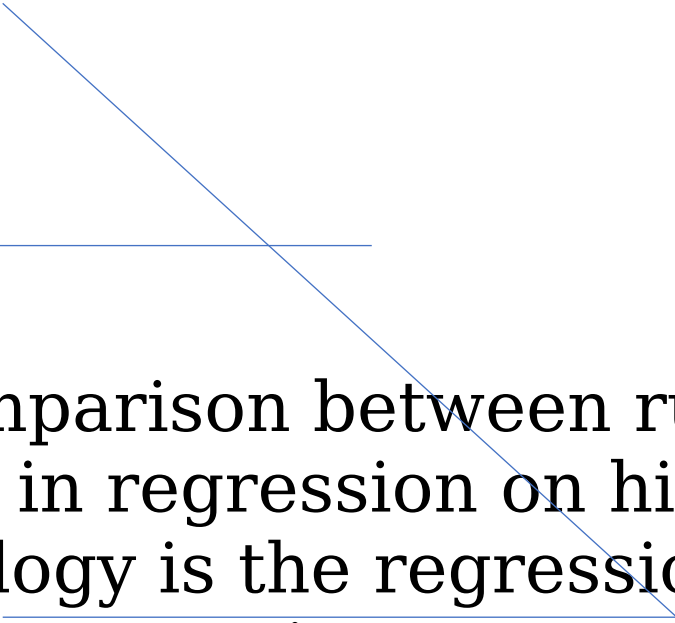

I. Progresssive method

Just the senses and progressive senses of the city as opposed to the countryside.

II. Regressive method

The levels of analysis in the regression on the progressive – one level is architectural changes, another level is historical, and a third level is definitely ecological – in the comparative between city and countryside.

Comparison between rural and city in regression on history and ecology is the regression based on progressive senses.
